

How to use the sentiment indicator

Our sentiment indicator provides you with a 12-month outlook from a selection of fund groups available through our platform.

We asked each fund group how they think a range of asset classes such as equities (company shares), property, and fixed income (bonds) will perform over the next year.

Please note, the sentiment indicator is exactly that – an indication of sentiment from a selection of fund groups. No-one can predict the future direction of stock markets and past performance is not a reliable guide for future returns.

Fund group outlook

The outlook provided by the fund group for equities ignores the effect currency movements can have on the market. For example, if the fund group believes the outlook for US equities is positive, but thinks sterling will strengthen against the dollar they will show a positive outlook for the US market.

'Currency exchange rates impact investments in other countries. If the currency of the investment rises compared to sterling, this adds to returns; if it falls, this reduces returns. Please read 'Your quick guide to currency movements' for more information.

Outlook guidelines

- ▲ A positive outlook
The fund group believes the sector will perform positively over the next 12 months.
- ↔ A neutral outlook
The fund group believes the sector's performance will be relatively neutral over the next 12 months with largely neither positive or negative performance.
- ▼ A negative outlook
The fund group believes the sector will perform negatively over the next 12 months.
